Birth as an American Rite of Passage

Edited by Robbie Davis-Floyd, University of Texas, Austin, United States of America
Series: Social Science Perspectives on Childbirth and Reproduction

This book explores three generations of childbearing people, birth activists and researchers, and birth practitioners to take a fresh look at the “standard procedures” that are used to “manage” American childbirth. Offers non-evidence-based obstetric interventions as rituals that enact and transmit core values of the American technocracy, it answers the question of why these interventions continue to be performed despite all evidence to the contrary. This third edition brings together Davis-Floyd’s insights into the ritualization of labor and birth and the technocratic, humanistic, and holistic models of birth with new data.

Corruption and Illiberal Politics in the Trump Era

Edited by Donna M. Goldstein, University of Colorado Boulder, USA, and Kristen Drybread, University of Colorado Boulder, USA.
This book explores the nexus of corruption, late capitalism, and illiberal politics in the Trump era. Through deep, contextualized analysis and careful critique it offers valuable perspectives on how corruption is defined and understood in the current historical moment. Essays in this collection consider how corruption is practiced, mobilized, or invoked in a range of cases, each of which is embedded within larger concerns about what citizenship, social belonging, honesty, and justice mean in the United States today. This will be of great interest to readers from anthropology, sociology, political science and American studies.

Transcendental Medication

The Evolution of Mind, Culture, and Healing

Edited by Christopher D. Lynn, Vanderbilt University, Austin, UT, USA

Christopher D. Lynn

Transcendental Medication considers why human brains evolved to have consciousness, yet we spend much of our time trying to reduce our awareness. It outlines how limiting consciousness—rather than expanding it—is more functional and satisfying for most people, most of the time. Written in a highly engaging style, the book will appeal to students and scholars interested in mind, altered states of consciousness, and evolution. It is particularly suitable for those approaching the issue from cultural, biological, psychological and cognitive anthropology, as well as evolutionary psychology, cognitive neuroscience, and religious studies.

A Community Empowerment Approach to Heritage Management

From Values Assessment to Local Engagement

Evangelos Kyriakidis

This book presents an innovative approach to public archaeology in a rural community, which has had powerful results in terms of empowering a village community in Crete to become long term guardians of their cultural heritage. As well as expanding the research on Minoan peak sanctuaries, the volume contributes to a greater understanding of how rural communities can be successfully engaged in the management of heritage, and is relevant to archaeologists and other heritage professionals wishing to understand the latest developments in public archaeology.

African Islands

A Comparative Archaeology

Peter Mitchell

Series: Routledge Studies in African Archaeology and Cultural Heritage

African Islands provides the first geographically and chronologically comprehensive overview of the archaeology of African islands. This book draws archaeologically informed histories of African islands into a single synthesis, focused on multiple issues of common interest, among them human impacts on previously uninhabited ecologies, the role of islands in the growth of long-distance maritime trade networks, and the functioning of plantation economies based on the exploitation of unfree labour. It gives an up-to-date synthesis and account of all aspects of archaeological research on Africa’s islands for students and academics alike.

Parallel Lives
Romans and the American Founders

Karl Baughman, Prairie View A&M University, Texas, USA.
and Brook Poston, Stephen F. Austin State University, Texas, USA.

This book compares selected Romans of the late Republic with American Founders in the style of Plutarch, demonstrating the humanity of heroes and villains from different times and places through their similarities and differences. Republicanism is shown to shape both Romans and American Founders in this previously unexplored contribution to a growing trend of broadening historical exposure.

Of interest to students and scholars of the late Roman and early American Republics and those studying connections between the classical past and modern world.

Three More Plays by Aristophanes
Staging Politics

Jeffrey Henderson, Boston University, United States of America

This volume provides modern, uncensored translations of Aristophanes’ Acharnians, Knights, and Wasps. Originally a series, these plays are the world’s earliest political satures, available here for the first time in one volume.

In these works, Aristophanes explored the vulnerability of democracy to populist manipulation and disinformation. This volume allows readers to explore the perils facing early democracy, still relevant today. Introductions to the plays and their sociopolitical context offer the reader key background information.

Of interest to students and scholars in classical studies, drama, and political science.

Language Incompetence
Learning to Communicate through Cancer, Disability, and Anomalous Embodiment

Suresh Canagarajah, Pennsylvania State University, USA

This book is framed as a memoir of the author’s journey through a cancer diagnosis and resulting impairments, as he continued his teaching and research activities during and after medical procedures. The narrative weaves together theoretical debates, textual analyses, and ethnographic data from communicative practices to redefine language competence.

The book is intended for graduate students and researchers in language and literacy studies. It would interest scholars outside these disciplines to understand what language studies can offer to address the role of disabilities, impairments, and debilities in embodied communication and thinking.

Teaching and Learning in English Medium Instruction
An Introduction

Jack C. Richards and Jack Pun, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

The book contains a number of short chapters written in an accessible style with discussion questions and practical follow-up tasks. Throughout the book, key theory and research serves to introduce the core issues involved in EMI, which are then explored in terms of implications for practice. The book can be used in workshops and courses and for groups that include EMI teachers of content subjects, EAP teachers, TESOL students, and teachers and education officials involved with the implementation of EMI in different contexts. With the expansion of EMI worldwide in recent years the book seeks to introduce EMI to a new generation of EMI teachers and language teaching professionals.

My Soul Look Back in Wonder
Memories from a Life of Study, Struggle, and Doin Battle in the Language Wars

Geneva Napoleon Smitherman

This is the story of Dr. Geneva Smitherman, aka “Dr. G,” the pioneering linguist often referred to as the “Queen of Black Language.” In a series of narrative essays, Dr. G writes eloquently and powerfully about the role of language in social transformation and the academic, intellectual, linguistic, and societal debates that shaped her groundbreaking work as a Black Studies O.G. and a Womanist scholar-activist of African American Language. As Dr. G enters her eighth decade, in this Black Lives Matter historical moment, she seeks to share the meaning and purpose of a life of study and struggle and its significance for all those who seek racial and social justice today.

Literature, Social Wisdom, and Global Justice
Developing Systems Thinking through Literary Study
Mark Bracher
This book responds to the pressing and increasingly recognized need to cultivate social wisdom for addressing major problems confronting humanity. Connecting literary studies with some of the biggest questions confronted by researchers and students today, the book provides a practical approach to thinking through, and potentially solving, global problems such as poverty, inequality, crime, war, racism, classism, environmental decline, and climate change.

A Guide to Creative Writing and the Imagination
Kris Sakanussemm
Teaching creative writing for the multicultural, global, and digital generation, this volume offers a fresh approach for enhancing core writing skills in the major forms of Poetry, Fiction, Nonfiction, and Drama. Creative Writing and the Imagination aims to provide students with organic, active learning through imitation and examples which not only emphasize writing and reading but look to other art forms for inspiration. The work is intended for a global English market as core or supplementary text at the undergraduate level and as a supporting frame at the M.F.A. level.

Literary Geography
Sheila Honess
Series: The New Critical Idiom
Literary Geography provides an introduction to work in the field, making the interdiscipline accessible and visible to students and academics working in literary studies and human geography, as well as related fields such as the geohumanities, place writing, and geopoetics. Accessible and clear, this comprehensive overview is an essential guide for anyone interested in learning more about the history, current activity, and future of work in the interdiscipline of literary geography.

Muslim Textualities
A Literary Approach to Feminism
Jean M. Kane
In literary and visual productions, the authors negotiated static visual emblems of Islam, most prominently as “the veil.” They did so not by rejecting veiling practices, but by devising strategies of representation that drew on Muslim resources, concepts, and visual traditions as well as popular empowerment narratives. Muslim Textualities argues for more flexible and capacious interpretation, with particular attention to visibility as a metaphor for political agency and to knowledge of cultural contexts.

Literature and the Critics
Developing Responses to Texts
Richard Jacobs
This volume presents extracts from around 200 leading literary critics of the last several decades. Structured chronologically, this book presents illuminating examples of critical readings of familiar texts, demonstrating a variety of methods and approaches to critical practice. The range of critical voices represented provides students with eloquent and insightful models of how to read, think and write about texts so that they can form their own critical responses and develop as independent readers. Literature and the Critics is a book which practitioners and academics, this volume seeks to explore how its distinctive properties guide both writer and reader, and to address why this form is so well suited to the early 21st century. Largely approached from a practitioner perspective, this collection provides vivid snapshots of contemporary debates within the prose poetry field, while actively contributing to the poetics and craft of the form.

Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice
Edited by Anne Caldwell and Oz Hardwick
Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice vigorously engages with the Why? and the How? of prose poetry, a form that is currently enjoying a surge in popularity. With contributions by both practitioners and academics, this volume seeks to explore how its distinctive properties guide both writer and reader, and to address why this form is so well suited to the early 21st century. Largely approached from a practitioner perspective, this collection provides vivid snapshots of contemporary debates within the prose poetry field, while actively contributing to the poetics and craft of the form.

Jazz in Socialist Hà Nội
Improvisations between Worlds

Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz

Jazz in Socialist Hà Nội: Improvisations between Worlds examines the germination and growth of jazz under communist rule—perceived as the “music of the enemy” and “ideologically decadent”—in the Vietnamese capital of Hà Nội. After disappearing from the scene in 1954 following the end of the First Indochina War, jazz reemerged in the public sphere decades later at the end of the Cold War. Since then, Hà Nội has established itself as a vital and vibrant jazz center. Featuring interviews with principal players involved in cultivating the scene, this book presents the sociocultural encounters between musicians and the larger powers enmeshed in the broader political economy.

Mixing Pop and Politics
Political Dimensions of Popular Music in the 21st Century

Edited by Catherine Hoad, Masse University Wellington, New Zealand, Geoff Stahl, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand and Oli Wilson, Masse University Wellington, New Zealand

The political has always been part of popular music, but how does that play out in today’s musical and political landscape? Mixing Pop and Politics: Political Dimensions of Popular Music in the 21st Century provides an innovative exploration of the complex politics of popular music in its contemporary formations. Amid the shifting paradigms of power in the 2010s, the chapters in this book go beyond the idea of popular music as protest to explore how resistance, subversion, containment, and reconciliation all interact in the popular music realm.

The Routledge Companion to Music and Human Rights

Edited by Julian Fifer, Angela Impey, SOAS, University of London, UK; Peter G. Kirchschlaeger, Manfred Nowak and George Ulrich

Series: SOAS Studies in Music

The Companion to Music and Human Rights is a collection of case studies that spans a wide range of concerns about music and human rights. It is comprised of 24 chapters interspersed between 10 ‘sketches’ that focus on individual’s intimate experiences with, or use of music and human rights. Threats to the peaceful pursuit of individual and collective goals that have caused the fragmentation of nations has impelled practitioners in the fields of music and human rights to explore, together, ways they might amplify the impact of their values and professional objectives.

Dialogues on the Ethics of Abortion

Bertha Alvarez Manninen, Arizona State University, USA

Series: Philosophical Dialogues on Contemporary Problems

Through these dialogues, readers are introduced to the difficult moral issues of abortion. Chapter 1 examines, Roe v. Wade and other relevant legal cases. Chapter 2 explores philosophical issues such as: Are fetuses persons? Is fetal potential morally relevant? Chapter 3, covers Don Marquis’s ‘Why Abortion is Immoral’ and also the metaphorical issues of personal identity. Chapter 4 examines Judith Jarvis Thomson’s ‘A Defense of Abortion,’ including objections and responses to the argument from bodily autonomy. Chapter 5 looks at abortion in hard cases, such as in cases of rape and non-viable pregnancies, plus a conversation on fathers and abortion.

German Philosophy in the Twentieth Century

Dilthey to Honneth

Julian Young, Wake Forest University, USA

In this outstanding introduction, German Philosophy in the Twentieth Century: Dilthey to Honneth - the third and final volume in his trilogy - Julian Young examines the work of eight German philosophers and theologians of the period. He shows how they engaged with profound questions about individual and collective lives, criticised the increasing rationalisation and mechanisation characteristic of modernity, and committed themselves to varying forms of liberalism, socialism and democracy.

Essential reading for students of German philosophy, phenomenology and theology and also for those in related fields such as literature, political theory and sociology.

Emotion

Charlie Kurth, Western Michigan University, USA

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

The emotions as an area of study in philosophy dates back to Aristotle and the Stoics. They have also become one of the most exciting areas of current philosophical research. This book explains and assesses the philosophy of the emotions, discussing topics such as the emotions and perception, science and the emotions, emotions in cultural context, epistemology and the emotions and a range of case studies of different kinds of emotions, including compassion and disgust, pride and shame and anxiety.

Ideal for those studying and researching the philosophy of the emotions as well as ethics, epistemology and philosophy of mind and psychology.

Markets with Limits

How the Commodification of Academia Derails Debate

James Stacey Taylor, The College of New Jersey, USA

Taylor puts the debates over the moral limits of markets back on track. He develops a taxonomy of the positions that are actually held by critics of markets, and clarifies the role played by current moral and political philosophy by arguments that justify (or condemn) certain actions according to what they communicate. Taylor argues that the debates derailed because they were conducted in accord with market, rather than academic, norms—and that this demonstrates that market thinking should not govern academic research. Concludes with suggestions as to how to encourage academics to conduct research in accord with academic norms and hence improve its quality.

Existentialism: A Philosophical Inquiry

Joel Smith, University of Manchester, UK

Existentialism asks fundamental questions about human existence: What gives our lives meaning and value? What is it to live truthfully? How do I live an authentic life? What is my responsibility to myself and to others? In this book Joel Smith introduces and assesses the arguments and controversies surrounding these questions in an engaging way, providing a superb introduction to this important and perennial philosophical subject.

Including chapter summaries and further readings, this is the ideal starting point for anyone interested in this fascinating and important subject, in Philosophy as well as related disciplines such as Literature and Religion.

Markets without Limits

2nd Edition

Jason F. Brennan, Georgetown University and Peter Jaworski

In this expanded second edition, Brennan and Jaworski say it is time to give markets a fair hearing. They argue that the market does not introduce wrongness where there was not any previously. Thus, if you may do it for free you may do it for money. The second edition includes: cogent responses to recently made counterarguments; new empirical evidence on the ways markets sometimes crowd in virtue and altruism; analysis of blackmail and “associtative” objections to markets; new material on exploitation and coercion issues, selling citizenship, residency rights, and arguments about “dignity”.

Philosophy of Social Science
A Contemporary Introduction

Mark Risjord, Emory University, USA

Series: Routledge Contemporary Introductions to Philosophy

This accessible text offers a comprehensive overview of debates in the field, with special attention to new research programs. Topics include the relationship of social policy to social science, interpretive research, cognitive and evolutionary explanations, intentional action explanation, rational choice theory, conventions and social norms, joint intentionality, causal inference, and experimentation. The Second Edition provides updates with the most recent literature and adds two new chapters: one on modeling and one on the role of race and gender in the social sciences.

Space

Peter Merriman, Aberystwyth University, UK

Series: Key Ideas in Geography

Space is the first accessible text which provides a comprehensive examination of approaches that have crossed between such diverse fields as philosophy, physics, architecture, sociology, anthropology, and geography. It examines the influence of geometry, arithmetic, natural philosophy, empiricism and positivism to the development of spatial thinking, as well as contributions of phenomenologists, existentialists, psychologists, Marxists and post-structuralists to how we occupy, live, structure, and perform spaces and practices of spacing. It will be of central importance to scholars and practitioners working across the arts, humanities, social sciences, and physical sciences.

Skepticism

Annalisa Coliva, University of Modena, Italy and Duncan Pritchard, University of California, Irvine & University of Edinburgh

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

Skepticism is a perennial problem in philosophy from antiquity, to the early modern period of Descartes and Hume, and right through to the present day. It remains a widely studied topic and presents us with a paradox with important ramifications not only for epistemology but also for many other core areas of philosophy. This book provides a thorough grounding in contemporary debates about skepticism. With the addition of annotated further reading and a glossary this is an ideal starting point for anyone studying the philosophy of skepticism, along with students of epistemology, metaphysics and contemporary analytic philosophy.

Skepticism: The Basics

Juan Comesaña and Manuel Comesaña

Series: The Basics

This book introduces students and other interested readers to the philosophical study of skepticism, a central and longstanding subject in philosophy. The first three chapters cover knowledge, providing the necessary foundation for introducing skepticism in the book’s final three chapters. With a glossary of key terms and suggestions for further reading, Skepticism: The Basics is an ideal starting point for anyone seeking a lively and accessible foray into the study of epistemology.
The Ethics of Sex

Thinking to Some Purpose

Susan Stebbing

First published in 1939 but unavailable for many years, Stebbing’s book is a classic manual of how to think clearly and remains fresh and insightful. Written against a backdrop of the rise of dictatorships in Europe, it is packed with useful tips and insights on how to spot illogical statements and slipshod thinking, and how to rely on reason rather than emotion. At a time when we are again faced with serious threats to democracy and free thought, Stebbing’s advice remains as important as ever.

This edition includes a new Foreword by Nigel Warburton and an Introduction by Peter West, who places Susan Stebbing’s classic book in historical and philosophical context.

Why Machines Will Never Rule the World

Artificial Intelligence without Fear

Jobst Landgrebe and Barry Smith

The book’s core argument is that an artificial intelligence that could equal or exceed human intelligence – sometimes called artificial general intelligence (AGI) – is for mathematical reasons impossible. It offers two specific reasons for this claim: Human intelligence is a capability of a complex dynamic system – the human brain and central nervous system. Systems of this sort cannot be modelled mathematically in a way that allows them to operate inside a computer. In supporting their claim, the authors marshal evidence from mathematics, physics, computer science, philosophy, linguistics, and biology.

Bible and Cinema
An Introduction
Adele Reinhartz, University of Ottawa, Canada

Bible and Cinema: An Introduction is a comprehensive examination of how the Bible has been used and represented in mainstream cinema to develop their plots, characters, and themes. The book considers two general types of films: Bible movies that retell biblical stories, such as the Exodus and the life of Jesus, and Bible-related movies that make use of biblical books, stories, verses, and figures, and Bibles themselves to tell non-biblical, often fictional, narratives. This book also includes pedagogical resources including discussions of film theory, as well as key words and discussion questions.

Hinduism in America
An Introduction
Michael J. Altman, University of Alabama, USA

An accessible introduction to the long history of religion in the encounter between America and India. Each chapter uses a key theoretical term in the study of religion to frame and explore a variety of historical topics including: American missionary encounters with India, representations of Hindu religions in American literature, world religions and Hinduism, Vedanta, yoga, Hinduism in American counterculture, and immigrant Hindu communities in the USA.

Secularism: The Basics
Jacques Berlinerblau, Georgetown University, USA

Secularism: The Basics is a concise and engaging introduction to confusing and contradictory public discussions of secularism across the globe. In this lively and lucid book, Jacques Berlinerblau addresses why secularism is defined in so many ways and why it so ignites people’s passions. This book is an ideal starting point for anyone seeking a readable introduction to the often-conflicting interpretations of one of our era’s most complex and controversial ideas.

Black Feminist Thought, 30th Anniversary Edition

Knowledge, Consciousness, and the Politics of Empowerment

Patricia Hill Collins

In the first major update to this classic book in many years, Collins traces the history and contours of Black women’s ideas and actions to argue that Black feminist thought is the discourse that fosters Black women’s survival, persistence, and success against the odds. Through meticulous research that synthesizes the important intellectual work done by Black women, Collins’s timely update demonstrates that Black women’s ideas and actions are not marginal concerns but rather are central to the future of social justice within democratic societies.

The Flows of Transnationalism: Questioning Identities and Reimagining Curriculum

Seungho Moon, Loyola University Chicago

This reflexive, transcultural dialogue scholarship integrates autobiography alongside an in-depth, critical analysis of Eastern and Western philosophy. As an exploration of multiple versions of knowing and identities, this work allows readers to extend and invent their own approaches to examining the fluidity of identities. Moon promotes diverse perspectives within curriculum studies by disrupting the self-other and cultural sameness-difference dichotomy.

This thought-provoking book is intended to benefit educators, university faculty, and interested members of the public.

10 Steps to Develop Great Learners

Visible Learning for Parents

John Hattie, University of Melbourne and Kyle Hattie

What can concerned parents and carers do to ensure their children, of all ages, develop great learning habits which will help them achieve their maximum at school and in life? John Hattie, one of the most respected and renowned Education researchers in the world, with his son Kyle, himself a respected teacher, offer a 10-step plan to nurturing curiosity and intellectual ambition and providing a home environment that encourages and values learning. These simple steps based on the strongest of research evidence and packed full of practical advice can be followed by any parent or carer to support and enhance learning and maximise the potential of their children.

Artfully Teaching the Science of Reading

Chase Young, David Paige and Timothy V. Rasinski

This book is a bridge between two major strands of reading instruction that are often held in opposition: the science of reading and artful approaches to teaching reading. The authors describe how teachers can use the science of reading to engage students in artful, engaging, and authentic instruction. Chapters cover key topics, including phonemic awareness, reading fluency, vocabulary, assessment, home and family reading, and more. This essential roadmap for pre-service and in-service reading teachers restores the importance of teacher agency, supports the critical understanding of reading research, and allows teachers to use experience and creative approaches in the classroom.

Story Machines: How Computers Have Become Creative Writers

Mike Sharples and Rafael Pérez y Pérez

In Story Machines, two pioneers of creative artificial intelligence explore the design and impact of AI story generators. The book covers three themes: language generators that compose coherent text, storyworlds with believable characters, and AI models of human storytellers. Providing examples of story machines through the ages, it covers the history, recent developments, and future implications of automated story generation. Anyone with an interest in story writing will gain a new perspective on what it means to be a creative writer, what parts of creativity can be mechanised and what is essentially human.

The Antiracist World Language Classroom

Krisinha Hines-Gaither and Cécile Accilien

How can you incorporate antiracist practices into specific subject areas? This essential book finally answers that question and offers a clear roadmap for introducing antiracism into the world language classroom. Drawing on foundational and cutting-edge knowledge of antiracism, authors Hines-Gaither and Accilien address the following questions: What does antiracism look like in the world language classroom, why is it vital to implement antiracist practices relevant to your classroom or school, and how to enact antiracist pedagogies and practices that enrich and benefit your classroom or school.

The Lean Education Manifesto

Arran Hamilton and John Hattie. University of Melbourne

In a context where education funding is stagnating and even declining, Arran Hamilton and John Hattie suggest that we need to start thinking Lean and explicitly look for ways of unlocking more from less. Drawing on data from 900+ systematic reviews of 52,000+ research studies - from the perspective of efficiency of impact, this ground-breaking work identifies a range of initiatives that are worth starting. It introduces the Lean to G.O.L.D. methodology to support school and system leaders select, implement and scale those high-probability initiatives, and to rigorously de-implement those for the stopping.

The Psychology of Mathematics

Anderson Norton. Virginia Tech, USA

This book offers an innovative introduction to the psychological basis of mathematics and the nature of mathematical thinking and learning, using an approach that empowers students by fostering their own construction of mathematical structures. Including reflections and activities designed to inspire awareness of the mental actions and processes coordinated in practicing mathematics, the book is geared towards current and future secondary and elementary mathematics teachers who will empower the next generation of mathematicians and STEM majors. Those interested in the history and philosophy that underpins mathematics will also benefit from this book.
Raising Twice-Exceptional Children
A Handbook for Parents of Neurodivergent Gifted Kids
Emily Kercher-Morris
Just because a child is gifted doesn't mean they don't have other types of neurodivergence, like ADHD, autism, dyslexia, and more. Conversely, even children with one of these diagnoses can be cognitively gifted. This book provides you with a roadmap to understand the complex makeup of your “gifted-plus,” or twice-exceptional, child or teen. It helps you understand your child’s diagnosis, meet their social-emotional needs, build self-regulation skills and goal setting, and teach self-advocacy. It also shows you effective ways to collaborate with teachers and school staff, and it offers advice on finding strength-based strategies that support development at home.

Corporate Cultural Responsibility
How Business Can Support Art, Design, and Culture

Michael Bzdak

As companies seek new ways to add value to society, this book places business support of the arts in a corporate social responsibility context and offers a new concept: Corporate Cultural Responsibility. It discusses the issues underlying business support of the arts and explores new avenues of collaboration and value creation. The framework presented in the book serves as a guide for identifying the key attributes and projected impact of successful and sustainable models. Unlike other books centered on the relationship of art and commerce, this book looks at the broader and global implications of Corporate Cultural Responsibility.

Enterprise Cybersecurity in Digital Business
Building a Cyber Resilient Organization

Ariel Evans
Cybersecurity typically is viewed as the boogyman: it strikes fear into the hearts of non-technical employees. This book provides a clear guide for companies to understand cyber from a business perspective rather than a technical perspective, and to build resilience for their business. Written by a world-renowned expert in the field, the book is based on three years of research with the Fortune 1000 and cyber insurance industry carriers, reinsurers and brokers. It acts as a roadmap to understand cybersecurity maturity, set goals to increase resiliency, create new roles to fill business gaps related to cybersecurity and make cyber inclusive for everyone in the business.

Hyperconsumption
Corporate Marketing vs. the Planet

Gerard Hastings, University of Stirling, UK
Diving deep into the world of corporate marketing, this incisive and eye-opening work shows how, in the hands of the corporation, business has become manipulative, divisive and disastrously at odds with the needs of the natural world. It calls on us to rethink and rebel. Professionals and students in the business, marketing, public health, environmental and political sectors – as well as concerned citizens who know that business as usual is not an option – will value this accessible guide to what is going wrong with our current business models and how these failings can be addressed.

Marketing in Latin America and the Caribbean

Contemporary Case Studies

Edited by Joseann Knight, The Univ. of the West Indies, Barbados, Fabrizio Noboa S., Univ. S. Francisco de Quito, Ecuador and Barney G. Pacheco, The Univ. of the West Indies, Trinidad & Tobago

Latin America and the Caribbean are often placed in the same geographical and economic grouping. However, too little is known in either region about the other’s business cultures and marketplaces. This works a casebook that analyses the marketing histories, challenges, strategies and vision of small, medium and large indigenous businesses from South America, Central America, Mexico and the Caribbean. Filling a gap in the literature by focusing on this understudied region and its indigenous firms, this text is essential and recommended reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students studying International Marketing, Marketing Management and Strategy.

Series: State of the Art in Business Research

The coronavirus pandemic forced work back into the home on a massive scale. The long-held belief that work and home are separate spheres of economic life was turned on its head overnight. Many employees were new to this way of working and many employers had to manage a disparate workforce for the first time. This book reviews what impact this shift had on the lives of millions of employees, the organisations which employ them and the societies in which they live. It will appeal to all those who want a quick and concise introduction to the major themes associated with remote and hybrid working.

Solarnomics

Setting Up and Managing a Profitable Solar Business

David Wright

Solar power has come of age. Not only has it become one of the key alternatives to fossil fuels, it can now be deployed in a way that makes a viable business with a financial profit. This book shows industry professionals and students how to do just that. The book shows how to estimate costs and revenues, how to tweak the design of a project to improve profitability, how to calculate return on investment, how to assess and deal with risk, how to raise capital, how to combine solar with batteries to make a hybrid microgrid, and how to be prepared for future developments in the evolving smart electricity grid.

Killer Data

Modern Perspectives on Serial Murder

Enzo Yaksic

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour

Killer Data examines the phenomenon of serial murder using data collected from international sources to examine serial homicide offender (SHO) patterning globally, focusing on contemporary cases. This allows for a broader understanding of serial homicide and dispels some of the myths around offenders. The current serial murder classification scheme incorrectly types serial killers as supremely intelligent killing machines while discounting their socialization, experiences, and choices. Killer Data is essential reading for students and scholars of Criminal Justice and Criminology, law enforcement professionals, and the interested general reader.

2nd Edition

Agricultural Policy in the United States

Evolution and Economics

James L. Novak, Auburn University, USA, Larry D. Sanders, Oklahoma State University, USA, and Amy D. Hagerman

Series: Routledge Textbooks in Environmental and Agricultural Economics

This book traces US agricultural policy from its colonial roots to the present, using economic concepts to analyze and interpret political and economic consequences. It also examines the processes by which agricultural policies are developed, and the government structure which supports the implementation of legislation passed by Congress. The second edition examines the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018 and sets the scene for future policy developments. Additionally, it looks at trade wars and the impact of black swan events like the COVID-19 pandemic on agricultural resilience.

This is a valuable textbook for courses in agricultural economics and agricultural policy.

Doing Statistical Analysis

A Student’s Guide to Quantitative Research

Christine Thane

Doing Statistical Analysis looks at three kinds of statistical research questions – descriptive, associational and inferential – and shows students how to conduct statistical analyses and interpret the results. Keeping equations to a minimum, it uses a conversational style and relatable examples such as football, covid-19 and tourism, to aid understanding. Each chapter contains practice exercises, and a section showing students how to reproduce the statistical results in the book using Stata and SPSS. Its accessible approach means this is the ideal textbook for undergraduate students across the social and behavioural sciences needing to build their confidence with statistical analysis.

Digital Water
Enabling a More Resilient, Secure and Equitable Water Future
William Sarni, Water Foundry, USA
Series: Earthscan Water Text
Water resources are under stress from over-allocation, increased demand, pollution, climate change and outdated public policies. Historically, approaches to delivering water for human consumption, industrial production, agriculture, power generation and ecosystems are no longer adequate to meet demands. As a result, we need to vastly improve the efficiency and effectiveness of our public and private sector processes in water management. The author describes recent advances in data acquisition, big data analytics, artificial intelligence and blockchain, which provide new tools to meet needs in both developing and developed economies.

How to Successfully Encourage Sustainable Development Policy
Lessons from Germany
Günther Bachmann
Series: Routledge Studies in Environmental Policy
This book builds on the insights of Günther Bachmann, former Secretary General for the German Sustainability Council, who spent almost twenty years advising the German Government on sustainability policy. The book discusses his experiences in negotiating stakeholder statements at the highest national levels. This book will be of global relevance to sustainability professionals and policy makers and will advise them on how to successfully move ahead with sustainability policies.

Essential Concepts of Environmental Communication
An A–Z Guide
Pat Brereton
Series: Routledge Studies in Environmental Communication and Media
This book draws on a broad spectrum of environmental communications and related cross-disciplinary literature to help students and scholars grasp the interconnecting key concepts within this ever-expanding field of study. Aligning climate change and environmental learning through media and communications, particularly taking into account the post-COVID challenge of sustainability, remains one of the most important concerns within environmental communications.

Joinery, Joists and Gender
A History of Woodworking for the 21st Century
Deirdre Visser
This is the first publication of its kind to survey the long and rich histories of women and gender non-conforming persons who work in wood. Written for craft practitioners, design students, and readers interested in the intersections of gender and labor history—with 200 full-color images both historical and contemporary—this book provides an accessible and insightful entry into the histories, practices, and lived experiences of women and non-binary makers in woodworking. Part I presents a woodworking history primarily in Europe and the United States. Part II features sixteen in-depth profiles of diverse contemporary woodworkers.

Heroes of Environmental Diplomacy
Profiles in Courage
Edited by Felix Dodds and Chris Spence
Today more than ever, when the world is beset by environmental, social, healthcare, and economic challenges, we need courage in our politics, both nationally and globally. Presenting an uplifting and gripping narrative, this book is an invaluable resource for students, scholars, activists and professionals who are seeking to understand how consensus is reached in these global meetings and how individuals can have a genuine impact on preserving our planet and reinforcing the positive message that global cooperation can actually work.

Sacred Civics
Building Seven Generation Cities
Edited by Jayne Engle, Julian Agyeman and Tanya Chung-Tiam-Fook
Series: Routledge Equity, Justice and the Sustainable City series
Sacred Civics argues that societal transformation requires that spirituality and sacred values are essential to reimagining patterns of how we live, organize and govern ourselves, determine and distribute wealth, inhabit and design cities, and construct relationships. The book brings together transdisciplinary and global academics, professionals and activists to question assumptions that are fused deep into the code of how societies operate, and to draw on wisdom from Indigenous traditions. A must-read for anyone interested in intersectional discussions on social justice, inclusivity, participatory design, healthy communities and future cities.

The Aesthetics of Industrial Design
Seeing, Designing and Making
Richard Herrriott
This textbook introduces design students to key principles of three-dimensional form, bridging aesthetics and practical design objectives. It explores how we see and what it is that characterises visually appealing and satisfactory design. Written by an experienced designer, educator and researcher, the book equips students with the knowledge and understanding of how aesthetically superior design is distinct from lesser work. It explains the key principles and concepts they can incorporate into their own designs, encourages readers to investigate and experiment with real design problems, and enables them to verbally communicate their design intentions.

The Sustainable Manifesto
A Commitment to Individual, Economic, and Political Change
Kersten Reich, University of Cologne, Germany
Series: Routledge Focus on Environment and Sustainability
In The Sustainable Manifesto, Kersten Reich describes in a concise and memorable way the necessary actions that humans need to take to live sustainably and combat climate change. Innovative and accessible, this book will be of interest to students and researchers of sustainability, theories of learning, human behaviour, as well as those who are looking for answers on how to fight for a sustainable future.

The Agricultural Dilemma
How Not to Feed the World
Glenn Davis Stone
Series: Earthscan Food and Agriculture
The Agricultural Dilemma questions everything we think we know about the current state of agriculture and how to, or perhaps more importantly how not to, feed a world with a growing population. This book is about the three fundamental forms of agriculture: Malthusian (expansion), industrialization (external-input-dependent) and intensification (labour-based).

The Vegan Evolution
Transforming Diets and Agriculture
Gregory F. Tague
Series: Routledge Studies in Food, Society and the Environment
Using the latest research and ideas about the cultural ecology of food, this book makes the case that through biological and cultural evolution the human diet can gravitate away from farmed meat and dairy products. The thrust of the writing demonstrates that because humans are a cultural species, and since we are evolving more culturally than biologically, it stands to reason for health and environmental reasons that we develop a vegan economy. The book calls to legislative leaders, policy makers, and educators to shift away from animal farming and inform people about the advantages of a vegan culture.

The Landscape of Utopia
Writings on Everyday Life, Taste, Democracy, and Design
Tim Waterman, The Bartlett School of Architecture, University College London, UK
A collection of short interludes, think pieces, and critical essays on landscape, utopia, philosophy, culture, and food, all written in a highly original and engaging style by academic and theorist Tim Waterman. Exploring power and democracy, and their shaping of public space and public life; taste, etiquette, belief and ritual, and foodways in community and civic life, the book provides a much-needed critical approach to landscape imaginaries. It discusses landscape in its broadest sense, as a descriptor of the relationship between people and place that occurs everywhere on land, from cities to countryside, suburb to wilderness.

Unsustainable World
Are We Losing the Battle to Save Our Planet?
Peter N. Nemetz
Using a cross-disciplinary, science and economics-based approach, this book provides a sobering and comprehensive assessment of the multifaceted barriers to achieving sustainability at a global level. Scientific evidence is presented in detail, in keeping with the advice of Swedish climate-activist, Greta Thunberg, to let the science speak for itself. The author outlines why sustainability is unlikely to be achieved in several key areas of human endeavour and readers are challenged to weigh the scientific evidence for themselves. This book introduces students and general readers to the challenges of sustainability and the environmental difficulties facing humanity today.

A Cultural Approach to Populism

Juha Herkman, The University of Helsinki, Finland

This book is a critical introduction of theorisations and research on contemporary political populism emphasising the cultural perspective. It introduces the basic theories and analyses the cultural construction of populism regarding radical democratic theory and empirical studies. Applying Laclau’s and Mouffe’s theories, the author builds a bridge between radical democratic and idealational approaches on populism with examples and studies that emphasise European radical right populism, alongside US, Latin American and Asian cases. Scholars and students of political science, media and communication studies, cultural studies and social sciences will find this a novel approach.

Discursive Disruption, Populist Communication and Democracy

The Cases of Hugo Chávez and Donald J. Trump

Elena Block, University of Queensland, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Political Communication

In this book Elena Block explores the links between declining democratic discourses, populist communication, and reflects on the communicative and moral dimensions of populism. Block proposes the concept of discursive disruption to help to identify, analyze and understand the disruptive power of populist speech. Discursive Disruption, Populist Communication and Democracy is ideally designed for scholars and professional communicators in political science and communication studies eager to understand the connection between weakening discourses of modern democracy and the pervasiveness of confrontational styles of populist communication in contemporary political exchanges.

Antisemitism on Social Media

Edited by Monika Hübischer, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany and Sabine von Mering, Brandeis University, USA

Antisemitism on Social Media is a book for all who want to understand this phenomenon. It addresses how social media with its technology and business model has revolutionized the dissemination of antisemitism, and how this impacts not only victims of antisemitic hate speech but also society at large. People working for social media companies, policy makers, practitioners, and journalists will benefit from the questions raised, the findings, and the recommendations. Educators who teach courses on antisemitism, hate speech, extremism, conspiracies, Holocaust denial, but also those who teach future leaders in computer technology will find this volume an important resource.

Women vs. Women
The Case for Cooperation

Joan Johnson-Freese, US Naval War College, RI, USA

Women vs. Women is a book about power dynamics and competition between women. The author argues that women have been mired in competitive quicksand since the beginning of time, often beginning in earnest during adolescence, to their social, economic, and political detriment. As a multidisciplinary work, this book is intended as a supplementary text in undergraduate and graduate courses on American politics, American foreign policy, gender and diversity studies, global studies, sociology, security studies, culture-focused courses, economics, and religion. It will also interest general audiences increasingly eager to understand the dynamics of the world they live in.

Examining and Mitigating Sexual Misconduct in Sport

Edited by Tanya Prewitt-White and Leslee A. Fisher

Examining and Mitigating Sexual Misconduct in Sport outlines systemic and sociological explanations for why sport is a site of sexual misconduct. The authors in the text describe cultural realities and considerations sport stakeholders must acknowledge and be informed of to make sport a more equitable and safe space. Personal narratives from a variety of sport stakeholders which unveil their lived experiences of sexual misconduct and humanize survivor stories in ways often ignored in sport and society are shared. Authors offer recommendations to all sport stakeholders to mitigate incidents of and harm done by sexual misconduct.

Critique of Psychoanalytic Reason
Studies in Lacanian Theory and Practice
Dany Nobus

Series: The Centre for Freudian Analysis and Research Library (CFAR)

In nine interrelated chapters, the book highlights both the flaws and the strengths of Lacan’s ideas, in areas of investigation that are as crucial as they are contentious, within as well as outside psychoanalysis. Drawing on a vast range of source-materials, including many unpublished archival documents, it teases out controversial issues such as money, organisational failure, and light-hearted, ‘gay’ thinking, and it relies on the highest standards of scholarly excellence to develop its argument.

Practicing Prodependence
The Clinical Alternative to Codependency Treatment
Robert Weiss and Kim Buck
In Practicing Prodependence Drs. Weiss and Buck present a new social and psychological model of human interdependence-focused treatment for families and loved ones of addicts. This strength and attachment-based model is focused on accepting and celebrating human connection in ways that are healthy and life affirming for each person. Prodependence presents a new paradigm through which loved ones can learn to love more effectively, without bearing shame or judgement. This title will assist counselors, therapists and addiction professionals in improving the ways they treat loved ones of addicts and other troubled people.

Shame, Pride, and Relational Trauma
Concepts and Psychotherapy
Ken Benau, private practice, California, USA
Shame, Pride, and Relational Trauma is a guide to recognizing the many ways shame and pride lie at the heart of psychotherapy with survivors of relational trauma. Therapists will learn about ways to conceptualize and successfully navigate complex, patient-therapist shame dynamics and apply neuroscientific findings to this challenging work.

Autism Spectrum Disorder in the Criminal Justice System
A Guide to Understanding Suspects, Defendants and Offenders with Autism

Dr Clare S. Alley

This book focuses on autism spectrum disorder (ASD) in the criminal justice system. Rather than being the perpetrators of offending, individuals with ASD are more likely to be the victim of crime. However, there is nevertheless a small subset of individuals with ASD who do offend, and this book provides an in-depth understanding of how certain features of ASD may provide the context of vulnerability to engaging in a number of types of offending behaviours.

This book is ideal for criminal defense lawyers and practitioners in psychology, psychiatry, and social work as well as policy makers and reformers.

Addressing societal trends, environment and behavior theories, place attachment, branding, authenticity, location, layout, and ambiance, the book provides guidelines to help designers and operators create more welcoming third places. Its practical design guidelines cover location, accessibility, seating, lighting, sound and more. Written for students, academics and designers, this book discusses the value of coffee shops and cafés and guides readers through the ways to create a place of belonging that brings people together.

Early and Unpublished Writings of Christopher Alexander
Thinking, Building, Writing
Edited by Howard Davis
This book contains twenty-five essays and other works, many chosen from the recently organized Christopher Alexander archive, providing a window into the ideas and thought process of one of the most innovative architectural thinkers of the twentieth century. The items span Alexander’s fifty-year career, beginning with an early version of his PhD dissertation based on fieldwork in India, continuing to fifteen years in the development of A Pattern Language, one of the best-selling books in the history of architecture, and proceeding to the writing of The Nature of Order, Alexander’s four-volume masterwork, and beyond.

Ecologies of Inception
Design Potentials on a Warming Planet
Simone Ferracina, University of Edinburgh, UK
Responding to increasing levels of planetary pollution and environmental collapse, this book re-thinks potentiality—an object’s ability to change—in architecture and design. The book problematizes the still-prevailing modern paradigm of design practice: the technical tabula rasa, a tendency to begin from scratch and use raw and obedient materials that can be easily manipulated, facilitating a seamless and faithful embodiment of intentions. Instead, the philosophy of design developed in the text prompts—through a variety of case studies, thinkers, and disciplines—a collective reconsideration of value, dissociating it from the projects and signatures of any one author or generation.

Latour for Architects
Albena Yaneva, University of Manchester, UK
Series: Thinkers for Architects
Latour for Architects is the first introduction to the key concepts and ideas of Bruno Latour that are relevant to architects. First, the book discusses critically how specific methods and insights from his philosophy can inspire new thinking in architecture and design pedagogy. Second, it explores examples from architectural practice and urban design, and reviews recent attempts to extend the methods of ANT into the fields of architectural and urban studies. Third, the book advocates an ANT-inspired approach to architecture and examines how its methodological insights can trace new research avenues in the field, reflecting meticulously on its epistemological offerings.

Construction Economics

A New Approach

Danny Myers, University of the West of England, UK, and University of Bath, UK

Provides students with the principles underlying the relationship between economic theory and the construction industry. The new edition discusses the economic impact of the Covid pandemic on the industry and the implications of the promise to build back better. It includes new coverage of the opportunities offered by technology, new standards for energy efficiency and wellbeing, coverage of the circular economy, retrofitting and recycling, and a new research section on the journey involved in writing a dissertation or extended essay.

Essential undergraduate textbook for construction, quantity surveying, building surveying, architecture and engineering students.

International Construction Management

How the Global Industry Reshapes the World

Igor Martek, Deakin University - Australia

This book tells you everything you need to know about international construction: the companies, their markets, the types of projects they build, how they compete and operate, and how it affects us all. The insights provide guidance on how global construction companies develop competitive advantage and stay resilient in the face of a mercantile global economy. These lessons will be of interest to the student and manager alike.

Sustainable Residential Investing

How to Make Profits with Positive Impacts from UK Property

Anna Clare Harper

The positive impacts of sustainable property investing – for profit-motivated investors, people and the planet – could be huge. The financial, environmental and social costs of getting it wrong could be catastrophic. This book draws on expertise from within and beyond real estate, provides a simple framework for updating your approach. It highlights common mistakes, and shares advice so that you can avoid them. Ultimately, it’s about answering the question of the decade: “how can I invest profitably, with positive impacts?”

Building Cities to LAST
A Practical Guide to Sustainable Urbanism
Jassen Callender
Building Cities to LAST presents the myriad issues of sustainable urbanism in a clear and concise system, and supports holistic thinking about sustainable development in urban environments by providing four broad measures of urban sustainability. Lifecycle, Aesthetics, Scale, and Technology (LAST). These broad measures and infrastructures address the city as a whole and as a recognizable pattern of human activity and, in turn, increase the ability of cities – and the human race – to LAST. This book will find wide readership particularly among students and young practitioners in architecture, urban planning, and landscape architecture.

City and Regional Planning
Richard LeGates
This book provides an overview of the theory and practice of city and regional planning. With material on the globalization and the world city system and examples from other countries, the book has been written with the needs of readers worldwide who seek an overview of city and regional planning. It is aimed at U.S. graduate and undergraduate city and regional planning, geography, urban design, urban studies, civil engineering and other students and practitioners.

Designing Innovative Sustainable Neighborhoods
Avi Friedman
This book covers the key principles of residential planning and offers principles for sustainable neighbourhood design. Written by a designer and instructor, the book’s fully illustrated chapters provide detailed insights into contemporary strategies that architects, planners and builders are integrating into their thought processes and residential design practices. The need to think innovatively about neighbourhoods is at the core of this book, which will be useful to students and practitioners of urban design, urban planning, geography, and urban systems and architecture studios focused on sustainable residential development.

Landscape Architecture for Sea Level Rise
Innovative Global Solutions
Edited by Galen Newman and Zixu Qiao
This book assesses and illustrates innovative and practical world-wide measures for combating sea level rise from the profession of landscape architecture. It is important for those located within the current or future floodplain considering sea level rise and those responsible for land use within these areas to strategically implement a series of integrated constructed and green infrastructure-based flood risk-reduction mechanisms to adequately protect threatened areas. As a result, this book is beneficial to both academics and practitioners related to multiple design professions such as urban designers, planners, real estate developers, and landscape architects.

Lighting Design in Shared Public Spaces
Edited by Shanti Sumartojo, Monash University, Australia
This book advocates an approach to lighting design that focuses on how people experience illumination. Lighting Design in Shared Public Spaces contextualizes light, dark and lighting design within the settings, sensations, ideas and imaginaries that form our understanding of ourselves and the world around us. The chapters in this collection bring a new perspective to lighting design, arguing for an approach that addresses how lighting is experienced, understood and valued by people.

Multisensory Landscape Design
A Designer’s Guide for Seeing
Daniel Roehr, University of British Columbia, Canada
This is a textbook for design students, professionals, and educators to develop multisensory literacy. This book is the first of its kind, providing introductions on each of the five senses, along with exercises that demonstrate how to observe, record, and visualize them. It explores current design school pedagogy, and how we might imagine a more mindful way of teaching. The book is a foundational resource for students, professionals, and instructors to understand and ultimately create multisensory spaces that are inclusive for all. This book imagines a world where seeing is redefined in a way that encompasses all of the senses—not just the visual.
New Industrial Urbanism
Designing Places for Production
Tali Hatuka and Eran Ben-Joseph

New Industrial Urbanism explores the evolving and future relationships between cities and places of production, focusing on the spatial implications and physical design of integrating contemporary manufacturing into the city.

Moving the conversation beyond the reflexively-negative characterizations of industry, more than two centuries after the start of the Industrial Revolution, this book calls to reconsider the ways in which industry creates places, sustains jobs, and supports environmental sustainability in our cities.

Sustainable Infrastructure for Cities and Societies
Michael Neuman

Sustainable Infrastructure for Cities and Societies shows how fundamental planning, design, finance, and governance principles can be adapted for sustainable infrastructure to provide solutions to make cities significantly more sustainable. By providing a comprehensive overview on infrastructure, cities, planning, economics, and sustainability, the book addresses how to plan, design, finance, and manage infrastructure in ways that reduce consumption and harmful impacts while maintaining and improving life quality. This approach gives the book wide appeal for students, researchers, and practitioners hoping to build a more sustainable world.

Representing Landscapes
One Hundred Years of Visual Communication
Edited by Nadia Amoroso, University of Toronto, Canada
and Martin Holland

Series: Representing Landscapes

This volume provides an in-depth historical overview of graphic and visual communication styles, techniques and outputs from key landscape architects over the past century. Representing Landscapes: One Hundred Years of Visual Communication offers a detailed account of how past and present landscape architects and practitioners have harnessed the power of visualisation to frame and situate their designs within the larger cultural, social, ecological and political milieu. Richly detailed with over 220 illustrations, this work is a ‘must-have’ for those studying contemporary landscape design or those fascinated by the profession’s history.

Machine Learning
Architecture in the age of Artificial Intelligence

Phil Bernstein

The profession is changing. A new era is rapidly approaching when computers will not merely be instruments for data creation, manipulation and management, but, empowered by artificial intelligence, they will become agents of design themselves. Architects need a strategy for facing the opportunities and threats of these emergent capabilities or risk being left behind. Architecture’s best-known technologist, Phil Bernstein, provides that strategy.

Queer Spaces
An Atlas of LGBTQ+ Places and Stories

Edited by Adam Nathaniel Furman and Joshua Mardell

An independent bookshop in Glasgow; an ice cream parlour in Havana, where strawberry is the queerest choice; a cathedral in ruins in Managua, occupied by the underground LGBTQ+ community. Queer people have always found ways to exist and be together, and there will always be a need for queer spaces. In this lavishly illustrated volume, Adam Nathaniel Furman and Joshua Mardell have gathered together a community of contributors to share stories of spaces that range from the educational to the institutional to the re-appropriated, and many more besides.

Revaluing Modern Architecture
Changing conservation culture

John Allan

This book explores the conservation, regeneration and adaptive re-use of Modern architecture. It provides a general grounding in the field, its recent history and current development, including chapters on authenticity, charters, listing and protection. Case studies drawing on the author’s extensive practical experience offer valuable lessons learnt in the conservation of Modern heritage buildings. Looking beyond the specialist field of ‘elite’ heritage, Revaluing Modern Architecture also considers the changing culture of conservation for ‘sub-iconic’ buildings in relation to de-carbonisation and the climate emergency.

Squeezing It In
Designing for compact spaces

Mary Leslie

In this jargon-free guide, Mary Leslie demonstrates how to design for compact living, proposing creative solutions that can be applied to a variety of settings. A versatile designer may be addressing a cramped studio flat one day and a dressing room for an international business traveller the next; this book provides inspiration and advice for every kind of small space, and every budget. Organised around the different areas of the home, Squeezing It In examines familiar problems and offers clever, immediately applicable ideas for making the best of pocket-sized spaces.

The Happy Design Toolkit
Architecture for Better Mental Wellbeing

Ben Channon

If you were to design a building that prioritises occupants’ happiness, what would it look like? How would the materials, form and layout support healthy ways of living and working? Delving into the evidenced-based research on architecture and mental wellbeing, The Happy Design Toolkit helps you to create happier places. It explores how factors, such as lighting, comfort, control over our environments and access to nature, exercise and social interaction, can impact how we feel. Easy-to-understand tips include bringing nature into your developments with roof gardens and living facades and countering social isolation with communal areas that encourage chance interaction.

Aircraft Digital Electronic and Computer Systems

Mike Tooley, Brooklands College, UK

This text is a thorough introduction to the principles and practice of aircraft digital electronic, avionic and computer systems. It particularly suits maintenance engineer students on an EASA Part-66 or FAR-147 approved course, and those on related City & Guilds, National or Higher National Units, or First/Foundation degree courses in aircraft engineering and similar. New topics in this third edition include integrated modular avionics, cabin systems, and aircraft information systems, together with examples from the latest Airbus and Boeing systems, and updates to data buses and integrated circuits. The companion website www.66web.co.uk offers additional resource material.

Geometric and Engineering Drawing

Ken Morling and Stéphane Danjou, Rhine-Waalk University of Applied Sciences, Germany

This introduction to descriptive geometry and contemporary drafting guides the student through the essential principles to create engineering drawings that comply with international standards of technical product specification. This heavily updated new edition now applies to CAD as well as conventional drawing. Extensive new coverage is given to international drafting conventions, methods of spatial visualisation such as multi-view projection, dimensional and geometric tolerancing, and representation of workpiece and machine elements. It is ideal for undergraduates in engineering or product design, as well as students of vocational courses in engineering communication.
